

Update on Word Prediction Tools in TestNav (Spring 2026)

For Spring 2026 testing, Co:Writer will no longer be available in TestNav. This is due to the vendor retiring Co:Writer as a standalone tool. Students who are assigned word prediction as a web-based support will continue to have access to word prediction through the Read&Write web extension.

Read&Write will be the only supported web extension in TestNav and will automatically be enabled for students who are eligible and have web extensions selected in their profile—no additional selection or setup is required. This change does not affect any setup steps in ADAM.

Please note that Read&Write in TestNav will use its original word prediction functionality. As part of the vendor's efforts to maintain a stable and secure testing environment, updates to the standalone extension were deferred in TestNav to avoid introducing risk during the testing window. Word prediction remains available to students as expected.